Seattle, Wash., Dec. 28th, 1923.

My dear Mr. Weed:—

I am writing this to tell you how much I appreciate the nice large iris rhizomes you sent me. Never have I received better ones. They surely should bloom for me the coming season. I called Mr. Collier over, his office is near mine, to see how nice you had done by me. He said: "Weed always sends out nice stock. The peonies he sent me are the best I have ever purchased."

I just wanted you to know how nice I feel about this.

With my best regards and wishing you success for the new year.

Sincerely yours,

Dr. Louis L. Ballou.

INTRODUCTION

W EED'S LAND-SCAPE NURSERY
has grown the better varieties of perennials since its establishment in 1910, when specialization in peonies had its beginning. Although a few iris were grown then, specialization was not attempted until 1914, at which time most of the leading varieties then in the trade were obtained. These have been added to from year to year, until now we have one of the best selections of varieties existing.

At first only the bearded iris were grown, but as our own appreciation of the iris increased from year to year, we have added others in the beardless class—the Spurias, the Sibericas and the Japanese, and find that the soil and climatic conditions of Western Oregon are especially favorable for their growth. During the past year we have added over a hundred varieties of the Japanese iris, which now gives us the best collection of these beautiful flowers in America.

We have iris in bloom from November to August. Visitors are invited at all times, for even during the winter months we can show blooms of the delightful Speciosa. By the time this variety is through blooming in April, the dwarf bearded iris appear in flower. From April 20th until May 15th the intermediates are in bloom, after which the tall bearded iris in their glory make the best showing of all—lasting until June 10th. The Japanese iris wind up the season in the latter part of July, being at their best June 25 to July 15th.

Visitors can best make a selection of plants during the period of the best bloom of the tall bearded varieties—May 15th to June 10th. The nursery is located on the Tualatin Valley highway six miles west of Portland and one mile east of Beaverton. Here are grown the best in ornamental plants which are hardy for outdoor planting. The spring bulbs, dahlias, gladioli and other plants which require taking up during the winter months are not handled. Our general nursery catalog "Ornamental Plants for Landscape Gardening" and our peony catalog, "The Best in Peonies," are yours for the asking.

INFORMATION

It is a far cry from the old fashioned "flags" to the modern creations of scientific hybridization. With the better material for crossing, one may expect much better varieties in the future than any found in present collections. No educated man can view a display of the modern iris flowers without some appreciation for their beauty, while souls tuned to the music of flowers gaze upon them in warm admiration. Something of the popularity of the iris in this country may be appreciated when it is stated that the American Iris Society formed with 300 charter members, and now in its fourth year, has over 800 members.

The reason for the increasing popularity is easily explained. The bearded iris are the most easily grown of any flower and suited to a wide range of soil and climatic conditions. The plants require practically no attention beyond a resetting every four years. Better flowers are, of course, obtained when some attention is given the plants by cultivation, fertilization and irrigation.

A visit to a modern garden is a revelation to most people—even to flower lovers. The iris is the "Fleur de Lis"—the national flower of France. In America it is often called "the poor man's orchid" because of its delicate nature and rich coloring.

The flowers are beautiful in form and wonderful in structure. In colors there are royal purple and gold, all shades of blue from delicate azure to deepest violet, cream and snowy-white, violet so dark as to be almost black, shades of fawn and brown, copper and bronze, crimson and rose, ruffled, bordered, penciled and splashed in marvelous designs.

In the nursery we have iris in bloom from November until August. In fact, a few varieties—Crimson King, Kochi, Mrs. Allen Grey and others—often give a second bloom in September and October, so that there is hardly a time of the year but what there are iris of some sort in flower. Our visitors are always delighted with the blooms of Speciosa from November to April.

CULTURE—SOIL CONDITIONS

The bearded iris are of easy culture, requiring no special care either in planting, soil, or situation. A sunny exposure and well drained soil are best. If given water just before blooming the flowers will be larger and more perfect. After flowering it is perhaps best that they do not have water, that the plants may have a resting stage in which growth is practically dormant. Ground bone is the best fertilizer, although with ordinary soil conditions no fertilizer is needed. Do not use barnyard manure or fertilizers rich in nitrogen, for these promote plant growth to the exclusion of flowers.

So far as our personal experience goes, the iris is not subject to any plant disease, nor attacked by insects. In the Eastern states the plants are sometimes subject to a bacterial rot and a root borer. Upon two occasions we have received plants with indication of the bacterial rot, but upon scraping away the diseased portions the plants later became as thrifty as any. We have received only one plant showing evidence of the borer in the rhizome. This plant was burned for we did not wish to risk introducing the insect into this locality.

In 1922 the American Iris Society published a Symposium, giving a percentage rating of value to some 2000 varieties. This was a great step forward in the cultivation of the better varieties of Iris, for the society recommends that all varieties rated below 60% perfection be dropped. From year to year as new varieties have been added to our collection, we have realized the necessity of discarding all inferior varieties. This fact lead us, in 1920, to discard over 100 varieties. Again upon the publication of the Symposium, we discarded another fifty varieties from our plantings.

We set a higher standard than the 60% perfection as recommended in the Symposium. In fact, 75% is the lowest rating we aim to keep, although some of the dwarfs in our list are rated below this figure.

We are determined to have only the best. Not that we are crowded for room—we have 25 acres—but we cater to that increasing number of flower lovers who recognize that a choice flower takes no more space than a poor one, while the increased pleasure more than justifies the slight additional first cost. The number of varieties—there are over 4000 listed in the recently published check list—is increasing so rapidly that anyone would be foolish to attempt to grow them all. Our aim, however, is to have all varieties of real merit—those that will rate above 75% in a Symposium. To keep up with the introduction of new varieties we are constantly adding to our collection and expect to keep on doing so without end. Necessarily this will also mean to keep on discarding. While it is a pleasure to take on a new variety of promise, it is also an equal pleasure to discard one that proves unworthy.

POPULARITY INDICATES VALUE

In our own study of varieties we are greatly aided by the several thousand visitors to our grounds during the blooming season. When we receive orders for several hundred plants of some varieties and practically no orders for others, we have the consensus of opinion from the visitors to our gardens. Iris, like other flowers, are best selected when in bloom. Where this is not possible and the selection is left to us, we are particular to furnish varieties that cover a long season of bloom. This is a phase of personal selection that is generally overlooked, for visitors to the nursery in May know nothing of the winter blooming iris, nor of the Japanese varieties, unless their attention has been called to them. Iris may be planted at any season of the year, although the months of September and October are recommended as best if flowers are expected the following season. Do not plant too deep, for an iris grows naturally with the top of the rhizome showing above ground.

METHODS OF DESCRIPTION

In describing an iris, the upright petals are termed the "standards" and the bottom drooping petals are known as the "falls." This is further shortened in the description by the letter S for the standards and the letter F for the falls. The number—such as 78 or 84—preceding the name of a variety is the score given that variety in the Symposium. Where no number is given, it indicates that the variety was not rated in the Symposium, in most cases being too new to the trade or introduced since the publication of the Symposium. For some of the rare varieties of which our stock is too limited to offer plants for sale, we do not give descriptions.

The prices given are for the so-called single crowns, but in most cases there are two or three crowns connected. We give a dozen plants of a variety for the price of ten, or six for the price of five.

The Winter Blooming Iris

These remarkable winter blooming flowers belong to the genus Ungicularis and are natives of Algeria and Asia Minor. The plants have long grass-like foliage and are the most continuous bloomers of any iris—the “cut and come again” sort. With us they begin blooming the last of October and continue, except in severe cold snaps, until April. The variety speciosa is by far the best variety because it is the best bloomer. Blooming at a season when there are no other outdoor flowers, this iris should have a place in every garden on the Pacific Coast.

SPECIOSA. S. clear lilac; F. white, veined purple at the center, with outer half soft lilac, deepening inward to purple. $1.00.

MARGINATA. S. Lilac-blue; F. margined white 50c.

Dwarf Bearded Iris

These form low mats of leaves 3 to 4 inches high, producing lovely flowers on short stems during March and early April. They are fine for rock work or planting in front of other sorts.

80 EBURNEA. S. almost pure white; F. pale yellow, slightly washed bluish. 25c.

88 ECLIFSE. Rich reddish purple. 50c.

79 LUTEA. Robust yellow: 50c.

74 ORANGE QUEEN. Clear yellow throughout. 50c.

84 SCHNEEKUPPE. White, slightly reticulated at base. 25c.

83 SOCRATES. Reddish purple with yellow beard. 25c.

Intermediate Iris

These are so named because they are intermediate between the early dwarf varieties and the tall later flowering iris, in both length of flower stem and season of flowering. They bloom from the middle of April to early May, have large flowers and are very free bloomers. Many of them are of our finest varieties and some of this class should be included in every collection.

- 77 BLUE BOY. S. violet; F. velvety purple. $1.00.
 78 BOSNIAMAC. S. broad cream; F. Pale lavender cream. 50c.
 79 CHARMANT. Pale silvery-blue, with pale markings. 50c.
 80 DON CARLOS. S. blue; F. velvety reddish purple. 25c.
 91 EMPRESS. Creamy white. 50c.
FIRMAMENT. S. deep chicory blue; F. darker. $1.00.
 84 FRITJOF. S. lavender; F. purple, shaded lavender. A very free bloomer. 25c.

Iris Spuria

These are generally mentioned as the oriental iris, because of being native to various oriental countries. Many of the forms now in the trade, however, have been produced by crossing with various species. The plants are mostly five feet in height,, the flowers borne on a tall stiff stem well above the blade-like leaves. They do well in any soil, but will stand a wet soil in which the tall bearded iris will not grow. They can thus be massed to advantage on the border of pools or streams. They bloom the last of June with us.

SHELFORD GIANT. S. creamy yellow; F. cream with broad orange blotch. Growing over five feet. $3.00.

Japanese Iris

The characteristic feature of these remarkable iris consists in their horizontal petals. They begin to flower the last of June and continue through July. The flowers are small or large depending upon the moisture the plants receive for a few weeks before blooming. So if good results are wanted, plant in full sunlight on a well drained soil, but water well previous to flowering. It is important that the ground around the plants be not allowed to become dry and hard.

The tall bearded iris do best in a neutral or limed soil. The Japanese iris, however, do best on an acid soil. So while it is best to apply lime to the bearded iris, it should not be applied to the Japanese iris.

Our collection of these iris is one of the best, as we have over 150 varieties. But as they are much mixed in the trade, different names applying to the same varieties, and with many of our own plants still under trial, we list only the leading sorts. We shall be pleased to send our full list to anyone interested. There is now an increasing demand for these flowers and a symposium of varieties is greatly needed. Such a symposium will doubtless be published by the American Iris Society as soon as possible.

The Japanese Iris have either three or six petals, the former being mentioned as single and the latter as double. In our descriptions all the flowers have six petals unless they are given as single.

Price is fifty cents each, five dollars per dozen.

AFFECTION. White, splashed and speckled sky-blue with primrose blotches.

ANGEL'S DEN. Vinous purple, speckled grey.

CLOUD DRESS. Purple, margined grey.

FROSTY MOONLIGHT. Dark purple, veined white.

GEISHA. Deep mahogany red, base of petals lighter.

GEI SHO UI. Rich vinous purple, primrose blotches surrounded by a white halo which radiates out into the purple petals.

GOLD BOUND. Large pure white.

HELEN VON SIEBOLD. Single. White center, bordered violet-red.

HOLLYHOCK. Lavender-grey falls, with yellow throat bar set in purple field; violet stamens.

KASUGANO. Plum-purple, with white center.

KOKO NO IRO. Royal purple, with yellow center radiating into lines.

KURO KUMO. Deep purple, overlaid with blue.

MAPLE CASCADE. Crimson purple, suffused and feathered white.

NEPTUNE. Deep pansy violet.

ONDINE. White, with light blue shading. Single.

OSHO. Tyrian blue.

OYODO. Large violet blue. Single.

PYRAMID. Large, light violet-blue with narrow white veins.

ROYAL PURPLE. Rich purple with gold center radiating out into fine penciling.

SHIGA. Red lavender, with white halo.

YEDO PRIDE. Light rose center petals and dark plum outer petals.

Miscellaneous Iris

Under this head are grouped many varieties of iris, some of which are far different than the bearded iris. Some of these require special care or soil for their proper growth, and this must be taken into consideration. Thus the Susiana, while a lovely curiosity and a flower that when seen for the first time makes one look in wonderment at its peculiar form and markings, is not suited for ordinary culture. It is a native of Algeria and must be dried out during the summer months.

CARMELO. Narrow flowers of an uncommon shade of blue. $3.00.

DORAK. S. soft blue-violet; F. purple-violet. $5.

DOROTHEA WILLIAMSON. An American hybrid of a royal purple color. $3.00.

FOETIDISSIMA. The ornamental seeded iris. Flowers are very inconspicuous, but in autumn the open seed pods with their bright red seeds showing, make fine house decorations. 50c.

HAMADAN.

HEXAGONA PURPUREA. Raisin purple in color. Tall flower. $2.50.

NAZARIN. S. purplish-violet, with F. darker. No veining. $5.00.

PSEUDACORUS. Known as the Yellow Water Iris. Bright yellow. 25c.

PSEUDACORUS GIGANTEA. An improved form of the above. $1.00.

STOLONIFERA VAGA. Standards and falls of a beautiful shot heliotrope and bronze. $3.00.

SUSIANA. One of the greatest curiosities of all flowers. Large flowers of delicate texture. A back ground of grey is covered with an exquisitely intricate system of brown-black veins and dots. Dies out if watered in summer. $3.

ZWANENBURG. A curious green yellow flower, blooming for three weeks in April. $2.50.

WE REALIZE that Catalog Descriptions mean nothing to those not familiar with the many varieties. To the Beginner we recommend the Selection of Varieties that will give a long season of bloom, that are inexpensive, have a good rating in the Symposium and represent various values of color.

In any collection there are always a few leading sorts that seem to stand out from the rest in the making of a garden display, and as many of these are inexpensive, we recommend the following varieties as being of special merit for the price. As we give six plants of the same variety for the price of five, it is well to take advantage of this where a garden display is desired.
